

Patiswiss is taking over the Nobs nut business – and combining time-honored roasting craftsmanship with forward-looking processes.

On January 1, 2027, Patiswiss in Gunzgen will begin manufacturing Nobs' high-quality, roasted nut assortment. The acquisition includes the Nobs brand, the customer base, the recipes, and the production facilities.

With this move, the Swiss nut specialist Patiswiss is expanding its portfolio to include a brand steeped in tradition and a selection of specialty products.

Nobs has been rooted in Switzerland for over 120 years – and is a favorite among connoisseurs. The brand is present in retail, the hotel industry, restaurants, and food service. It stands for carefully selected nuts, time-honored roasting craftsmanship, and distinctive flavor. These high quality standards will remain the focus in the future as well.

«With this acquisition, Patiswiss is continuing a proven model for success,» says Sandro Ott, CEO of Patiswiss AG. «We combine our accumulated knowledge and established products with modern processes and new ideas. Our focus is on what customers value most about Nobs: high-quality nut specialties with a distinctive taste.»

«We are pleased to welcome Nobs employees in Gunzgen as part of the acquisition» says Sandro Ott, CEO of Patiswiss AG. «We would like to extend our special thanks to Gilbert Dumuid, who successfully led this long-established company – founded in 1904 by Hans Nobs – for many years and made the succession plan with Patiswiss possible.»

Nobs and Patiswiss share more than just their long history: a passion for select ingredients, meticulous craftsmanship, and high-quality indulgence.

With Nobs, this shared philosophy takes on a new dimension: time-honored craftsmanship creates potential for the future. Building on the brand's commitment to quality, Patiswiss also focuses on new ideas and products that combine taste and well-being. This is how time-honored indulgence and forward-thinking nutrition come together.
